Component Mission

The National Counterterrorism Center (NCTC) leads our nation's effort to combat terrorism at home and abroad by analyzing the threat, sharing that information with our partners, and integrating all instruments of national power to ensure unity of effort. The Center serves as the primary organization in the United States Government (USG) for analyzing and integrating all intelligence possessed or acquired by the USG pertaining to terrorism and counterterrorism, and its Director serves as the Counterterrorism Mission Manager. NCTC also serves as the central and shared knowledge bank on known and suspected terrorists and international terrorist groups, as well as their goals, strategies, capabilities, and networks of contacts and support. In addition, NCTC conducts strategic operational planning for counterterrorism activities, coordinating and integrating the efforts of departments and agencies across the Federal Government.

Major Duties and Responsibilities (MDRs)

The Presidential Support and Production Group, Terrorism Intelligence Brief (TIB) and CURRENT Branch, is responsible for overseeing the production processes for all NCTC finished intelligence products published in the TIB and on the CURRENT website. The Branch is comprised of staff, detail, and contract officers responsible for editing, formatting, and posting the various types of finished intelligence products authored by analysts from around the Community. The Branch also manages the IC Counterterrorism Production Calendar to ensure all Community partners are aware of relevant upcoming terrorism production.

- The Deputy Managing Editor will be responsible for overseeing the daily operations of the TIB and CURRENT Staffs to schedule, process, and publish daily production for senior counterterrorism customers, requiring regular engagement with authoring offices and agencies. The Deputy Managing Editor will lead a team of professional staff and assess performance, collaborate and oversee goal setting, and provide feedback on personal and professional development. Duties also include responsibility for using and maintaining relevant production databases and working with IT staff to develop new requirements for the primary NCTC production database. As part of the management team for the TIB and CURRENT Staff, the Deputy Managing Editor will help plan and implement strategic planning and budget allocation decisions to guarantee the team is equipped with the tools and expertise required to meet future customer, office, and mission needs. Manage complex, high-impact publications/media team projects, and lead the development of new and systematic processes for production management and quality control. Overtime may be required on occasion to meet heavy production demands.

Mandatory and Educational Requirements

- Demonstrated leadership, management, and organizational skills, and demonstrated ability to skillfully apply corporate, customer, and publications/media knowledge, skills, and abilities to direct plans and management for production, personnel, and resources. Extensive knowledge of customers' production support needs and media products and services to effectively anticipate and lead team response to customer needs for urgent tasking, crisis response, or surge requirements. Demonstrated interpersonal, organizational, negotiating, and problem-solving skills, including a demonstrated ability to work effectively both independently and in a team environment. Strong teambuilding, demonstrated ability to manage a diverse unit, direct taskings, communicate complex information clearly and concisely, effectively develop and mentor employees, appraise performance, and establish an atmosphere of teamwork. Strong analytic, writing, editing, and briefing skills.

Desired Requirements

- Familiarity with key US foreign policy and national security counterterrorism objectives and Homeland Security Presidential Directives. Background in or familiarity with counterterrorism analytic methods and national security classification procedures.
